

SUPT. MCNAUL INDICTED.

Hass's Superintendent of Insurance charged with obstructing justice.

TOPEKA, Kan., April 18.—The Grand Jury in the United States Circuit Court yesterday found an indictment against Webb McNall, the new Superintendent of Insurance in this State, for obstructing the administration of justice in refusing to grant licenses to the insurance companies that are contesting the Hillman suit in the federal courts. The Hillman case has been tried five times, and on each trial the jury failed to agree or the verdict was set aside for informality, with the result that the controversy is still pending in the Circuit Court for this district.

When McNall was made Superintendent of Insurance he declined to grant a license to the New York Mutual, the New York Life, and the Connecticut Mutual insurance companies, on the ground that they had failed to pay losses on the life of Hillman, who was in litigation, and would be paid if decided against them, but McNall insisted that the companies were not entitled to a license because of their failure to do so, and under the Kansas statute there was no appeal from the decision.

The insurance companies then endeavored to proceed in the U. S. Court, but Judge Foster dismissed the case, saying that it was not an offense punishable as an act of contempt, and the bill was referred with instructions to indict the officer if, upon proper investigation, it was found that his action was calculated to prejudice the public interest.

The jury considered the matter last week and found it to be a question of law, and voted three times, one for each of the insurance companies concerned in the Hillman transaction.

TURNED ADRIFT WITH HER BABY.

The Child Dies of Exposure—Ceremonies Hoeber Blame the Bellevue Authorities.

Celia Freund of 101 Allen street was turned out of Bellevue Hospital with her newborn baby on Saturday by the nurse that she was well enough to care for herself and the child. As she did not go home with the baby, she wandered about trying to get several institutions to take care of it. Being unsuccessful, she returned to Bellevue. Again unsuccessful, she went to a house to a house in Avenue A, near Seventh street.

As she sat on the stoop a German woman came in to inquire for the night. By that time the baby was dead. After its body had been sent to the Morgue yesterday, she went home, where she was received, the cause of her banishment.

Coroner Hoeber says the baby died of exposure, and blames the Bellevue Hospital authorities for turning the child and its mother adrift.
